William and Mary Theatre to Present Toller Comedy of War as Scheduled

Miss Althea Hunt has announced that No More Peace! will be given as scheduled March 8 and 9 at 8 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium.

During the month of March, UNESCO is sponsoring International Theatre Month, promoting plays which deal with world understanding, peace, tolerance and the battle of man for freedom and justice. Because it does emphasize these ideals, the play, No More Peace! was chosen by the William and Mary Theatre Group as its part in the nation-wide program.

The play, which had its American premiere on February 26, 1937, at the Vassar Experimental Theatre, is a comedy which revolves around the theme that men profess peace and practice war.

The action takes place partly in Olympus where Napoleon and St. Francis are disputing whether mankind really wants peace, and partly in the little imaginary state of Dunkelstein, which the two celestial disputants select as a proving ground for their theories. As the play opens, the people of Dunkelstein are holding a peace festival, which is interrupted by a telegram—from Olympus, though they do not know it—announcing that war has been declared. Immediately life in Dunkelstein becomes militarized. A dictator is declared. Profiteering commences, spy hunts begin, an army bureaucracy is in the saddle and a program to purify the national blood of Dunkelstein is inaugurated. In short, incisive scenes, Ernest Toller etches the tragic follies of mankind at war.

Commenting on Ernest Toller, Barrett H. Clark once said, "He knows that through laughter we can learn quite as much as through tragedy—at least so far as the grotesque comedy of war is concerned. No More Peace! is a gorgeous and delightful prank."

About No More Peace!, the New York Times stated, "No More Peace! has a little bit of Of Thee I Sing, of It Can't Happen Here, of Johnny Johnson, to name but three . . . The Vassar Experimental Theatre did right by its reputation in putting it on."

Music for the production was arranged by Alan C. Stewart, director of the William and Mary band. The Dictator Song was composed by Dick Hutcheson.

No Flowers, Please

The Inter-Fraternity Council requests that a policy of "no flowers" be observed for the coming Spring Hop. This policy was determined by conducting a poll of the various fraternities.

Workmen Continue Repairs in Phi Beta; To Rope Off Seats

During the past week, work on Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium has continued at a rapid pace since the ceiling under the north balcony crashed to the floor some ten days ago.

College authorities have stated that the play No More Peace!, scheduled for this Wednesday and Thursday, will go on.

According to a statement issued this week by Charles J. Duke, Jr., bursar of the college, instructions have been given to rope off all seats under both balconies, however. "A careful examination of the plaster (under the south balcony) indicates that there is no danger, but I do not believe we should run any risk," he added.

An interesting fact about the building was unearthed as a result of the recent accident. While it was under construction in 1926 a similar accident occurred to the south balcony. At the time, that section was strengthened and it is believed it is still in good condition.

In addition to the necessary repairs, it was stated that exit lighting would also be installed at the rear of the auditorium.

Plans for Men's $300,000 Dorm Approach Final Blueprint Phase

By Dick Dallas

Plans for the new men's dormitory reached the blueprint stage last week after construction of the building had been authorized only recently by the Board of Visitors. The dormitory is expected to cost about $300,000, and is planned to house 108 men. With construction beginning this summer it will be completed by the fall of 1951.

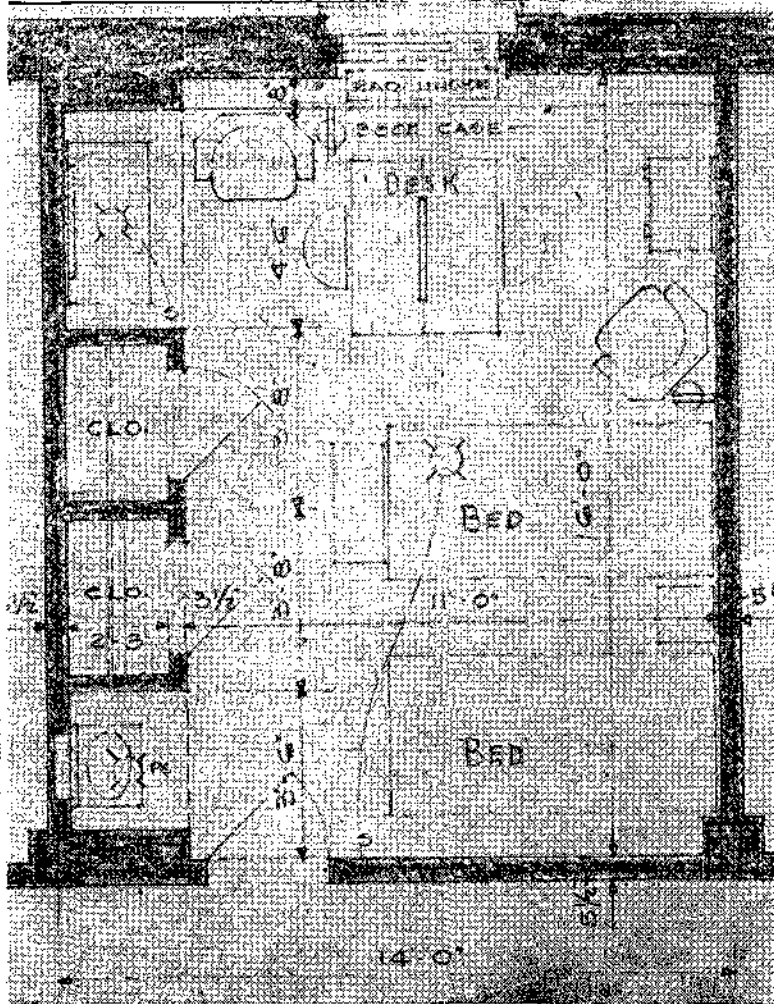

The three-story structure is designed so that four wings may be added to the sections which will be built this year. Details of construction will make it one of the most attractive and up-to-date buildings of the college.

Colonial Design

The exterior design will be in keeping with the colonial architecture of the other college buildings, while inside, groups of only five rooms will open on each hallway to eliminate the noise and confusion caused by long corridors. Over half the rooms in the new dormitory will be served by semi-private baths, and all will incorporate the most functional features of interior design.

More Space

Bureaus, sinks and radiators recessed into the walls will leave more working space for the student and will allow greater variety in the arrangement of furniture. The basement level of the building will feature a large recreation room which could be used for meetings and small dances, and will also include maintenance quarters and sections specially equipped for trunk storage. Room rent is expected to be about $80 per semester, on a par with rooms See DORM, Page 12

Women Will Elect Executive Council, Honor Committee Heads Tomorrow

Women students will go to the polls tomorrow to elect the president, vice-president and treasurer of the Executive Council and three junior members to the Honor Committee, according to Sarah Enos, vice-president of the WSCGA. Candidates nominated by the senior nominating committee are as follows: vice-president, Shirley "Rusty" Davis and Jeanette "Pat" Hedman; treasurer, Alice Marston and Virginia Campbell; Honor Committee, Carolyn Forman, Barbara Smith, Nancy Cooper; Mary See ELECTIONS, Page 12

Beneke May Play

Tentative arrangements have been made with Tex Beneke and his band to play for the May Finals Dance, according to Jim Kirkpatrick, chairman of the dance committee. The dance will be held in Blow Gymnasium on May 19. Dress will be formal and a theme will be chosen later.

Freshmen, with '36 Ford as Anchor, Out-Tug Juniors

By Bill Lee

It was a joyous pilgrimage which the freshmen and juniors made from College Corner to the Mecca of the campus, a little green fire hydrant in the rear of Monroe Hall, last Friday evening.

The tug of war procession was heralded by Jim Rehlaender and Bob Schauf, class presidents. Contributing to the revelry atmosphere was the college band and humorous capers of Jeep Friedman.

Counter-Challenge

At the conclusion of a brief ceremonial, in which Schauf counter-challenged Rehlaender on the cheek with a leather glove, the tugging battle began.

Members of the senior class marshalled enough strength to release the pressure valve on the fire hose which sent streams of water into the students and visitors who had gathered to witness the event. After the rope was stretched across the flow of water, both presidents clutched a section of it while their classmates took positions behind them.

Ford Gives Ground

Determined to be the victors, the junior team made the first frantic attempt to hurtle the freshmen into "no mans land." This attempt, however, was stymied but the pull was not in complete vain. Schauf's See TUG-OF-WAR, Page 12

W&M Fails to Place In VIPA Competition

William and Mary failed to place in newspaper and magazine competition among Virginia Inter-collegiate Press Association members in spring judging.

A panel of three judges Saturday nominated Washington and Lee's Ring Tum Phi and University of Richmond's University Messenger for first awards in the newspaper and magazine fields, respectively.

Priscilla Smith, of Randolph-Macon Women's College, was elected to the presidency of the VIPA, marking the first such office to be held by a woman.

Other new officers include George Taylor, vice-president, Richmond, and Robert Lovett, secretary-treasurer, Lynchburg.

Second award among newspapers went to the Stratford Traveler, while the Longwood Rotunda received mention.

The Engineer, of VPI, took second honors in magazine evaluation, with the Virginia Spectator being mentioned.

The awards were made at wind-up ceremonies at the semi-annual VIPA convention, held Friday and Saturday at Randolph-Macon Women's College, with R-M WC and Lynchburg College as co-hosts.

William and Mary Go - Round

(Editor's notes: We have received many requests to reprint one of Ronnie King's columns occasionally. Last week end while we were thumbing through some old FLAT HATS, we ran across several of his best, and decided that this week would be a good time to run a King column. This one was originally published in the FLAT HAT of February 22, 1949).

Last week as I thumbed through the explosive page of the Flat Hat, I suddenly got the feeling that the whole school was going to hell . . . But why all the fuss about shmoody government? I have the perfect solution to the problem. One of our representatives should make a motion that student government be abolished. If the administration won't permit such action, then our suspicions about dictatorship will be confirmed. And if they do let 'em get away with it, we'll know how powerful our organization really is. Of course, by that time, it will have been dissolved; but — well, we can work out the details later. I've often wondered what this college would be like if our student government were all-powerful — completely unrestricted by the administration and the Board of Visitors. So I present herewith, in playlet form, my conception of the shape of things which can never come.

I MOVE

(A One-Act Drama by Fletcher Castoria)

(The scene is Phi Beta Kappa Hall, William and Mary's House of Burgesses. The president of the student body, Chief Burgess Cartwright, raps for order. Burgess Meredith calls the roll and reads the minutes of the last meeting. Meredith: The last meeting took 46 minutes.

Pres: Thank you. Committee reports are now in order. Cafeteria Committee Mr. Morgan, Chairman.

Morgan: As you know, at the last meeting, we decided that we had to take stern measures to solve the deplorable cafeteria problem. Well, there wasn't much we could do about the food, but we did take action for which future generations of students will thank us. The Crotty brothers have been sterilized. (Loud huzzahs from the delegates.)

Pres: Well done, Morgan. Next, the Fraternity Lodge Committee.

Mr. Dayton, Chairman.

Dayton: The Fraternity Lodge Committee met last week to consider changes in the social rules for the lodges. We felt that the regulation which prohibits women in the lodges after four o'clock Monday morning is too restrictive. Cramps the weekend.

Pres: All in favor? So carried. Dayton: Also, we of the committee feel that expense of maids for the lodges is an unnecessary burden on the fraternities. Really, there's no reason why Dean Hocutt and Dean Jeffers can't make themselves useful in their spare time.

Dean Hocutt: I object!

Pres: You're out of order, fella, and can pick up your maid's uniform in the morning!

Dean Hocutt: Oh, fudge!

Pres: Leave us continue. Miss Canoles, Chairman of the Judicial Council.

Canoles: No report, I ain't no stool pigeon!

Pres: Bully for you, Miss Canoles. If there are no more committee reports, we'll go into old business.

Delegate 1: I'd like to know what was done about the campus-cutting situation.

Pres: Steps are being taken to dig up all the grass and cover the college grounds completely with bricks. If our present brick walks are any indication, when it rains, we'll have by far the largest swimming pool in the world.

Delegate 2: I'd like to say something with regard to the jokes in King's column.

Pres: Well, that's certainly in order under old business; but I understand that the Virginia Sanitation Commission is planning action; so let's move along. New business.

Delegate 3: Mr. President, I have written a new alma mater for our college. It has the same tune as the old one, but new words. I'd like to present it for your consideration.

(Clearing his throat and singing)
College mine, I love thee dearly,

How I cherish you.

Thinking I'll be leaving yearly, But I never do.

William and Mary, I am old— Here since '33.

Stop already with tradition— Give me my degree!

Second chorus . . .

Pres: Never mind! On to more important matters.

Delegate 4: Mr. President, I have a plan calling for the entire reorganization of the faculty. It occurred to me that our professors are getting stale teaching the same subjects year after year. My plan calls for the re-assignment of all professors to new courses. For example, Dr. Jackson will take over the Biology classes, Miss Hunt will be the new dean of the law school. Mr. McCray will henceforth teach Home Economics, and Mr. Kernodle will head the Women's Physical Education Department.

Pres: Any objections?

Voice: Yes!

Pres: The chair refuses to recognize Mrs. Kernodie.

Delegate 5: I move that all Virginia residents be prohibited from attending William and Mary.

Pres: So carried.

Delegate 6: I move that we burn down the Wren Building so that our class will be remembered in those little fillers in future editions of the Flat Hat.

Delegate 7: As a member of Orchestis, I'd like to do a hula dance for your entertainment. (She dances).

Delegate 8: I move that we—

Pres: (Watching the hula) I must remind you that there is already a motion on the floor. If you wish to call the question . . .

Delegate 8: In front of all these people?

Pres: You're out of order.

Delegate 8: Yeh, but she seems to have things pretty well organized.

Pres: If there be no more business, I shall declare the meeting to be adjourned. Scotch and Soda will be served to all in the Dodge Room, along with a chow mein dinner. Last one in is a rotten egg-foo-yong.

Through the Looking Glass

Jeannette Kremling and Mary-Jo Finn

To the faculty, we apologize for thinking you more super-sensitive than other groups we've referred to in the LOOKING GLASS. You can't hold a candle to some of the men on this campus. What could be more sensitive than a group of men who rise up in wrath at comments not even directed at them. We think it further indicative of the high caliber of the freshmen women, which we fully acknowledged in our last column, that they have not complained about our criticisms directed toward them. In fact, all the comments we have received from freshmen women (and not just our sorority sisters) were approbative. Of course, we can't say that this is a legitimate census, but we haven't even heard any dissenting comments from the women via the grapevine. However, we'll stop tearing at your heart strings and restate the points we tried to make last week.

1. WSCGA is a self-governing body. If any male student wants to read the preamble to the WSCGA constitution, he will find that "We, the women students of the College of William and Mary, believing in self-government and desiring to assume responsibility in the management of our affairs, so organize ourselves . . ."

2. In answer to the quips, "Let the freshmen get into trouble if they want," and "Any girl who comes to college is old enough to take care of herself," we'd like to say that the Administration has a certain responsibility to the parents of under-age women students. We know that this sounds old-fashioned, but some parents are just old-fashioned enough to worry about their daughters away at school.

3. Any member of WSCGA, and all women students are members, has the right to suggest changes in the existing rules.

And, lest you think that this whole subject is a fiction of our creative writing, we can state that we were requested by both upperclass women and WSCGA officers to discuss the situation. Jewish members do not just stir around rubbing their hands and smacking their lips at the prospect of trying delinquent young women. They desire to prevent offenses from occurring rather than sitting for hours listening to the results. After all, these people are schoolmates.

And finally, for the men who follow the laissez faire attitude toward the whole problem, we might add that every girl incurring a serious judicial offense has notice of it attached to her permanent college record by the Administration.

* * * *

As a painless method of getting a good perspective of college activities from the town meeting to the retirement of the Sacalis, we'd like to recommend The Alumni Gazette. We would also like to add our farewell to that of the Gazette which noted the passing of a campus institution—Corner Greeks as managed by Momma and Poppa Steve. They started on a shoe-string in a ten-foot wide restaurant and through the years built up a business, which the Gazette estimates, handled at least three million dollars. Yes, they've probably made a lot of money—a great percentage from college students—but they've given us a lot too: checks cashed (not the ones made out to "Corner Greeks," though) bills on the cuff, student rates, loans of tablecloths, friendly small talk, and a Saturday night mecca.

Unity or Lethargy—?

The sudden flurry of activity among the classes in recent weeks is, we hope, a sign of a returning sense of cooperation, spirit and unity among the various classes.

For the past year or so, there has been little or no spirit on this campus. Elections come and go, with a brief spasm of campaigning, only to allow the feeling of class unity to fall by the wayside immediately thereafter.

During the football season, the students manage to whip up a bit of enthusiasm for the afternoon of the game, but this also soon disappears until the next Saturday, like the clearing of a fog.

Last week, the basketball team left for the Southern Conference tournament amid the feeble cheers of some 75 students and members of the band. This was the only "sendoff" that they received all season—a season that produced one of the best, if not the best of William and Mary teams.

It is a crime that such a infinitesimal representation of the student body should turn out to cheer THEIR team on in the conference classic. Their biggest undertaking of the year, and 75 students turn out. It is the support of a student body that spurs a team on—or the lack of that support that tears a team apart.

At any rate, the recent class activities show definite signs that there is spirit among the students, and that it can be fostered to lead to more stimulating and novel activities in the future, thereby enriching the life of the students.

In a small town, the lack of sufficient recreational facilities brings more responsibility to rest upon the campus organizations. It is up to the classes, social groups and clubs to innovate any out-of-the-ordinary functions. Are they up to it, or are they satisfied to sit back and gripe about it and pass the buck on to the next group?

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir;

This letter carries a statement of policy which the Indian Band has decided to follow. It may be of interest to various organizations on campus and I would accordingly appreciate its publication.

The policy is as follows: A "pep" band, composed of members of the Indian Band, may be engaged by any campus organization for almost any occasion and for any amount of time up to one hour for ten dollars and seven days notice. This policy does not cover functions sponsored by either the college administration or the Athletic Association. Checks are to be made payable to Alan C. Stewart, Director, William and Mary Band.

Several times in the past few months various organizations have asked assistance of the band in putting over a stunt or a function. Some gave ample notice; most gave from 72 to 24 hours notice. It is impossible to assemble a balanced group on this campus without seven days notice. We feel that in playing the one or two jobs we played, we did ourselves more harm than we did the sponsoring organizations good. Moreover, many members of the band feel that if an organization really wants twenty or thirty musicians to play for it, that organization expects more than ten dollars worth of publicity . . . or noise, for that matter. . . . And we need every ten we can pick up.

Another feeling is that if the band members thought the band was gaining anything in a material sense from appearing on odd occasions, more of them would turn out.

We're not going into business as a "for-hire" band. Ten dollars will not buy two drum heads, but it will buy one head and maybe a mouthpiece with the change. We want to play for any organization we can help, and welcome every chance to get out. We want to be heard, but not when we are at our worst. We believe this token charge will cause a better service to those organizations which really want it.

We're trying to build a reputation. Within two years we hope other student bodies will be saying, "Boy, has Williams and Marys got a band, heh!" What our student body has seen of the Indian Band since football season hasn't looked like much of a start, we hasten to admit, but we do have the stuff. Without an incentive, without a feeling that people want you out there, not even one out of four people on the roll will turn up. But if somebody's throwing ten bucks into the kitty, they either want you, or they need you, or the show is no good without you, and we'll go for any of those reasons.

Here's hoping no one misinterprets this policy. . . . Sound out some member of the band; the feeling at last Thursday's rehearsal was pretty unanimous.

Yours for bigger and better billboards

Bridges Reveals New 'Echo' Policy

Bud Bridges, editor of the Colonial Echo, stated this week there would be a change of policy in the beauty queen section of the forthcoming year book.

The editors of the Echo have decided to abandon the former policy of selecting the candidates put up by each sorority and dormitory. They will cover the campus themselves, choosing from among the women students at college, the girls whom they consider to be typically photogenic.

This year's Colonial Echo will appear the second week of May.

At the Gulf of Guinea where the prime meridian crosses the equator at sea level, the earth's surface has neither longitude, latitude nor altitude.

By Danny Mottola

What's New? That's the question that Billy Eckstine asks on one of his most terrific sides. It is sung to a slow tempo with Billy's own band providing the accompaniment. There Are Such Things, an old Dorsey favorite, is done in typical Eckstine fashion on the reverse side. This is one of the best National recordings done by "Mr. B," and is a must for our stacks.

Artie Shaw, who has been on the comeback trail for the past year, has finally come out with a good waxing. Both sides feature renditions of old favorites—What Is This Thing Called Love? and Glider, a Basie specialty. Glider is strictly an instrumental and shows that the band has a lot of drive, especially in the brass. However, Shaw's clarinet work retards the band and keeps it from attaining great heights. The flipover is the better side, with a lot of bounce and definitely in the groove. Mel Torme and the Mel-Tones accompany the band, with the "Golden Fog" singing only two lines. This record definitely established Artie Shaw on the band wagon again, and with less clarinet work, he could easily reach the top.

Don Cornell has teamed up for the last time with Sammy Kaye in producing one of their greatest, It Isn't Fair. A sentimental number, it is well arranged and treated to give Cornell plenty of support. Artful sax work in the opening bars make this side great. The reverse, My Lily And My Rose, isn't worth the effort it takes to turn it over.

Getting into the progressive kick, we have a new Birdland record featuring a combo headed by Stan Getz, ex-tenor man for Woody

Herman. Two oldies, I've Got You Under My Skin and There's A Small Hotel, are touched up a bit to offer the best in bop today. This is a must for all the frantic ones.

Patti Paige has come up with something that is comparatively new in recording. She has recorded the same number four different times and put them together to form a harmony masterpiece, With My Eyes Wide Open. She makes like a quartet and is backed up by a small combo which gives the side a cabaret atmosphere. The other side plainly illustrates why Paige is known as the "female Frankie Laine." Oklahoma Blues is done up with a great deal of rhythm and feeling, which is so reminiscent of Laine. We give this record points.

Inn Quintet Records Album of Spirituals

An album of spirituals sung by the Williamsburg Inn Quintet has just been placed on sale, it was announced today by Miss Casey Miller, acting director of publications of Colonial Williamsburg.

The Quintet has been for many years a fixture of the Williamsburg Inn Sunday night buffet supper, where their songs are popular with guests and townspeople alike.

They have selected seven popular spirituals for their album.

The album, which features a large picture of the Inn on the front cover, contains two ten-inch vinyl - filled break - resistant records.

Montana's Senator Ecton Addresses SAE Fraternity at Convention Here

"People think every crisis that comes up today can be settled by a law or legislation. It cannot and will not!" This comment was made by Montana's Senator Zales N. Ecton to a group of over 200 members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity in the Pagoda Room Friday night.

Principal Speaker

Principal speaker at the Gamma Province banquet, Senator Ecton was discussing the current coal crisis, and commented that he was not in favor of the government intervening in the coal dispute. He cited an example of peaceful settlement in his town state, and opined that it should, and could, be handled in the same manner in other states.

On his subject, Ninety-Four Years Have Passed, he noted the changes that have come over this country since SAE was founded 94 years ago. Changes due to hard work, cooperation and originality, and that needed to be stressed in these times. He claimed that those qualities are needed to cope with the atomic problem. "We have all the tools necessary to control atomic energy if we only apply them," he stated.

W&M Is Host Chapter

The banquet highlighted the two-day province convention of the fraternity which was held in Williamsburg, with the W&M chapter serving as host to the 39 delegates of the 13 province chapters and numerous other guests.

Other speakers on the program were Richmond's Mayor W. Stirling King, Toastmaster Horace E. Henderson, and Colin R. Davis, president of the local chapter.

Early Morning Fire Causes One Death; Four Others Hurt

One person died and four more were injured as a result of fire that caused $6,000 damage to the Brick House Tavern here early Saturday morning, March 4.

The fatal victim of the blaze was listed as Harry C. Hunt, 68, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Fred H. Hunt of Rochester, N. Y. and Mrs. Edna Hunt both suffered first, second and third degree burns. Two other persons suffered minor injuries.

The Williamsburg volunteer fire department was summoned about midnight and within an hour extinguished the fire.

Uncertain as to the cause of the fire, it is believed to have been started by a cigarette in the basement of the building. Upon arrival at the scene, fireman found flames leaping up the open staircase of the building.

The Brick House Tavern is owned by the Restoration and serves as an additional housing unit for guests of the Williamsburg Inn and Lodge. It is located at Duke of Gloucester and Botetourt Streets.

Chesterfield Sponsor Flat Hat Quiz Series On Sunday Evenings

The first in a series of Flat Hat Telephone Quizzes, to be sponsored by Chesterfield, will be held on Sunday, March 12, announced Joan Carpenter, recently appointed Chesterfield representative on campus.

Each Sunday evening two dormitory sections will be called, and the person who answers the phone will be asked a question about information found in some article from the Flat Hat of the preceding Tuesday. If the question is answered correctly, a carton of Chesterfields will be given to the person who answered the phone.

The results of the Chesterfield quiz will be announced each week in the Flat Hat with the names of the winners, the question and the answer being given. In the event that the question is not answered correctly the first time, a different dormitory section will be called and the opportunity given to the person who answers in that section.

There will be no definite hour on Sunday evening that the call will be made, Joan stated. However, these calls will be made to two sections of the dormitories each week.

Dr. Ware Obstetrician, Speaks To Pre-Med Club

Dr. H. Hudnall Ware, professor of obstetrics at the Medical College of Virginia, and an alumnus of William and Mary, spoke at the Pre-Med Club meeting Thursday night. The topic of his address was Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Eleven members of the club went on a field trip to the Medical College of Virginia on February 18. The group was entertained and taken on a tour of the college by J. L. Lerrick, director of the Y.M.C.A., Dr. H. H. Ware, and W. B. Blanton, Jr., president of the student body.

At a discussion period afterwards, the members were given an opportunity to talk over various phases of the operation of the Medical College.

Louisiana Woman Accepts New Job

Mrs. Rose T. Alden, formerly of the Hotel Bienville in New Orleans, will succeed Miss Mary Francis McGreevy as executive housekeeper of Williamsburg Inn and Lodge, it was announced last week by John D. Green, vice-president of Williamsburg Restoration, Inc., and general manager of Williamsburg Inn and Lodge.

Mrs. Alden will leave her present position as executive housekeeper of the Hotel Bienville in New Orleans, to take up her new work in this historic city on March 15th. She has served as executive housekeeper of the Hotel Monteleone in New Orleans and from 1935 to 1937 served under Mr. Green when he was director of the Hotel Chatham in New York.

Miss McGreevy resigned her position here as of March 1st to become executive housekeeper of the Hotel Barclay in New York. She has been associated with the hotels serving visitors to this restored city since 1941.

Notable Book List Arrives at Library

The American Library Association publishes each year a list of fifty notable books, over half of which appear in the William and Mary Library. Librarians recommend these books to adult leaders for meeting the criteria of outstanding usefulness, timeliness and their contribution to literature.

Books which merited placement on the list, some of which are also represented in the college library, are: Asche's Mary, Beebe's High Jungle, Bemis' John Quincy Adams and the Foundation of American's Foreign Policy, Brown's The Story of Maps, Churchill's Their Finest Hour, Dulles' Labor in America, Gunther's Death Be Not Proud, Lilianthall's This I Do Believe, Mead's Death of A Salesman, Rusk's Life of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Schlesinger's The Vital Center and Van Doren's Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Theodore Roosevelt at 42 was the youngest man to be inaugurated as President of the U. S.

QUESTION:

Where can you get excellent FOOD served in a congenial atmosphere?

ANSWER:

WILMAR'S COFFEE SHOP

Two things every college man should know!

1. This is an Art Major. Really a sketch. Thinks Monet makes the world go round. His question in life is where does Van Gogh Vermeer! Knows Rem brand is nothing to sneeze at. Often goes to bed with shades half drawn.

2. This is a "Manhattan" Sportshirt. We've a whole gallery of these solid-colored rayon masterpieces, in a paletteful of colors. Just picture yourself in one.

Postponed Student Recital Rescheduled For Next Sunday in Phi Beta Kappa Hall

The second in a series of five student recitals, postponed last week due to damage done to Phi Beta Kappa Hall on February 25, will be held on Sunday, March 12, at 4 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The program will include vocal compositions by Anne Reese, soprano, Charles Brown, tenor and Joe Brinkley and Barry Wilson, baritone.

Pianists featured in the recital will be Freddy Ann Bailey, Claudia Richmond, Joanne Jonscher and Gay Rife.

Dr. Andrew C. Haigh, associate professor of fine arts, announced that the recital will be open to the general public and students.

Six departments have been added to RPI during the past ten years. These include business, music, fashion, occupational therapy, engineering, and elementary education.

Men Elect Models For Fashion Show

The various fraternities on campus will choose one girl from each sorority to represent them in a fashion show sponsored by the Williamsburg Venture Club.

This show, which will be presented by the Binns Shoppe, is to be held at Matthew Whaley School at 8 p. m. on March 10. The evening will also include a bridge and canasta party. Tickets may be purchased at the Placement Office for 75 cents.

USAF to Interview Officer Prospects

Interviews will be given on campus next Thursday, Friday and Monday, March 9, 10 and 13, to men and women interested in careers as officers in the United States Air Force.

An Air Force officer team, composed of Lieutenants Britt and Talignani will establish headquarters in the second floor corridor of the Wren Building from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on the days mentioned. They will explain career opportunities, assist those interested in filling out application forms and give qualifying examinations to those seeking aviation cadet pilot or navigator training.

Students who meet the qualifications, it was explained, will have opportunity to begin the processing procedure so that they will be ready to start training as soon as they finish college.

Qualified men will have the opportunity to train as pilots, as navigators or for non-flying duties.

The latter program—Officer Candidate School, which prepares officers for non-flying junior executive duties in administrative and technical fields—also is open to qualified young women.

Dr. Pomfret Talks At Club Meeting; Praises Law Study

Discussing the role of the law school, present and future, Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, spoke informally to the Wythe Law Club at its meeting last week.

"The study of law is fundamental to our modern system of college education," said Dr. Pomfret. "Many colleges give a wide variety of government courses, but fail to get to the heart of the matter by glossing over jurisprudence."

Two Advantages

Dr. Pomfret gave two advantages to William and Mary's legal program; its integration with the social sciences and the small size of the law school.

The ordinary liberal arts college is completely lacking in the advantages of integrated law and government study, he said.

Law Preview

The department of jurisprudence, Dr. Pomfret added, gives the student a "look see" into the field of law, allowing him to judge for himself its importance and the possibility of making the study of law his life's work.

The small size of the law school tends to promote a closer student-faculty tie, which is essential for work above the undergraduate level.

The meeting was presided over by Chancellor Heatwole.

Tri Delt Announces Scholarship Prizes

Delta Delta Delta announced this week that the 1950 Tri Delta scholarship awards are available to women student in colleges where there are chapters of the sorority.

The awards will be given in honor of Althea K. Hottel, dean of women at the University of Pennsylvania and the national president of the American Association of University Women. The amount to be awarded to any one of 94 campuses in the competition will not exceed $200.

Applicants may or may not be sorority members; but they should be well qualified students working towards degrees.

The committee on awards shall be the sole judge of the respective merits of the applicants. Those who are chosen will be notified after May 15, 1950, according to the announcement.

The scholarships will be forwarded to them at the beginning of the term for which the awards are made.

Dean Jeffers has application blanks available. It is requested that they be turned in by March 15, 1950.

The Michigan National Guard announced that one of its air units will be equipped with jet-type fighters early next year.

Royalist Announces Date of Publication

Pat Stringham, editor of the Royalist has confirmed the release date for the third issue of the Royalist publication as March 30th.

Results of the recent try-outs for staff positions remain unannounced. However the editor was very pleased with the results of participating contestants.

A committee of readers headed by Jane Waters is at present working on the try-out entries, and all new members will be notified as soon as possible.

Any material for the Royalist may be submitted to the Royalist box located on the first floor of Marshall-Wythe Hall, Monday through Wednesday.

Wilsonmen Fall to Blue Devils in Semi-Final Round

Wolfpack Wins Tournament For Fourth Straight Year

By John Leslie

After breaking the North Carolina jinx Thursday night with a 50-43 victory, the William and Mary Indians fell before the aroused Duke Blue Devils, 60-50 Friday night in the semi-final round of the annual Southern Conference Tournament played in the Duke Indoor Stadium.

NC State's powerful Wolfpack, advancing to the finals with triumphs over VPI and Wake Forest, defeated the Blue Devils, 67-47 for their fourth straight conference championship Saturday night before a 9,000 capacity crowd.

Neither of the two games was one which Coach Barney Wilson or his players would want to write home about. A strong second half was the margin of victory in the opening round, while the Indians played one of their worst games of the season against the surprising Blue Devils. Ed (Fuzzy) McMillan sparked the Tribe in both outings and was rewarded by being named on the All-Tournament first team.

William and Mary and the Tar Heels lived up to all advance notices in the first half, staging a dog-eat-dog 20 minutes that ended with the Indians in front by a scant 20-19 margin. At no time was either team's lead over three points, McMillan putting the Tribe in front with 19 seconds remaining before intermission with a free throw.

In the second half, however, the locals roared back with the help of Chester Giermak, who was playing in his last Southern Conference Tourney. The lanky Chicagoan contributed 11 points in the Tribe surge for a total of 15 for the night. McMillan grabbed scoring honors with 16 markers. But the winning margin came at the foul line, where the Indians hit for 20 of 23 shots.

The Big Green was even colder Friday night in the semi-finals, gaining the questionable honor of making two of 33 shots from the floor in the first half. Duke, playing one of its best games of the season, rolled to a 28-18 halftime advantage and held this 10 point margin for the remainder of the contest. Again accuracy from the foul line kept the Indians in the ball game. This time William and Mary made 14 of 16 shots in the opening half, and ended up with 23 of 29 in the final period.

Indian Of The Week

On the basis of his sterling defensive play against the University of North Carolina in the first round of the Southern Conference Tournament, Bob Benjamin is the choice of the Flat Hat sports staff for Indian of the Week.

Benjamin, one of the Tribe's most consistent players, held the Tar Heel's high scoring center, Nemo Nearman, to a measly three points while hitting the hoops for seven markers himself.

All season long Barney Wilson has been giving Benji the job of stopping the opponents' high scorers, and the performance against Nearman was just another of his unpublicized efforts. The 6' 2" forward has been assigned to NC State's Paul Horvath, GW's Johnny Moffatt, VPI's Tex Tilson and Seton Hall's Bobby Hurt to mention a few of the big names has stopped.

Midway in the season Bob was out of action due to a knee chip which involved an operation. His lost to the starting quintet was immediately seen as the team went into a slump missing badly his steady, calm play.

Like Bunting, he is seldom the high scorer, but can always be

Giermak, McMillan, Bunting Nominated To All-State Teams

For the second year in a row Chet Giermak was named as captain of the mythical All-State team. Chester, a unanimous selection, was joined on the first team by Dick Sayre and Tex Tilson of VPI, Joe Noertker of Virginia and W&L's Jay Handlan. Once again the emphasis for selection to the team was on scoring as can be seen from the fact that there are three centers on the first team.

The Indians placed their scrappy pair of guards, Ed "Fuzz" McMillan and Jere "Baby" Bunting on the second team; McMillan was barely edged off of the first team by Virginia's Noertker.

William and Mary's forward, Bob Benjamin, was given honorable mention on the team selected by Virginia Sports writers.

Coed Badminton

Women's intramural badminton will start this Thursday according to Tommy Smith, director of women's intramurals. All girls who are interested and have not signed up, are urged to do so at once on the bulletin board in Jefferson Gym. Smith reminded the girls that points made in Badminton count toward the required intramural participation points.

The Indians kept pace with the Blue Devils, who were led by Creep Youmans and Dayton Allen, in the second half, matching the Duke output of 32 points. At one time the Tribe was behind 44-26, but a late surge, highlighted by a faster attack and full-court guarding, ate up the difference.

Shooting was the only department in which the Indians were not up to par, as they passed and guarded well. Bob Benjamin was a sparkplug under the backboards, while Jere Bunting played his usual brilliant floor game.

Smith Announces Mural Track Meet For March 23, 24

Intramural Director Howard Smith has announced that the intramural track meet for this year will be held on March 23 and 24 instead of a later date as has been customary in years preceding. Those candidates who wish to participate in the meet are invited to begin preparation by working out with the varsity squad on the stadium track.

Intramural managers may obtain entry blanks from the supply attendant in Blow gymnasium and such forms should be completed and submitted before the deadline date on Monday, March 20. It should be noted that all varsity trackmen who have not won a letter in varsity track are eligible for the meet.

This year's intramural meet should prove highly competitive in view of the fact that restrictions, involving eligibility, have been reduced to a minimum. It is hoped that all potential cindermen will be on hand to participate.

Netmen Start Drills For Coming Season

Preparing for its March 29 opener with powerful Cornell, William and Mary's tennis squad has been working out indoors for the past week.

Along with Coach Bren Macken, the boys limbering up have been Howe Atwater, Tommy Boys, Ronnie Barnes, Garner Anthony, Sam Woods, Jack Hogan and George Larkin.

Atwater is expected to be in the number one spot for the Tribe this spring with Boys, Barnes and Anthony carrying the remaining singles load.

Finding the right doubles combinations will be Macken's biggest problem, with Woods and Hogan two good doubles bets.

SPORTS BEAT

By Dick Sayford

Someday when a basketball Hall of Fame is established, as it may well be in the not too distant future, the qualifications for scaling the almost insurmountable heights to hoop immortality will be exceedingly rigid. They should be.

On the collegiate key-holed floors of America, there are scores of cagemen who can justly lay claim to distinction as tap-in, lay-up, hook shot and set shot artists. There are countless experts at play-making, deft floor work and foul shooting. Great number of stars have that indomitable will to win, and records to prove achievements of outstanding basketball excellence.

But real greatness—the kind that would lead to basketball's Hall of Fame, demands all of these essentials—and yet even something more. That extra something would be found in very few. It would symbolize, in addition to all else, the greatness of modesty, the love of sportsmanship, the dignity of character, the ability to win and lose graciously and the qualities to gain for its possessor the affection, respect and admiration of all who knew him.

When the final buzzer brings an end to tonight's game in Norfolk's City Auditorium, fans will be written to the outstanding collegiate record of a remarkable athlete—that of Chester Frank Giermak.

The astounding accomplishments of Giermak as four years All-State, three seasons All-Conference, numerous All-America honors, holder of the state's scoring record for a single season, two years captain of the team, and his amazing scoring total of more than 2,000 points in his four years at the Reservation will stand out in bold relief for years to come in the annals of W&M athletic prowess.

Giermak's greatest esteem, however, will live in the minds of his teammates, opponents, coaches, and in the memories of all those who knew him and saw him play.

They will recall the many tributes paid the lanky Chicagoan. Like the night just a year ago when 10,000 fans sat in breathless silence as he lay injured and exhausted on the floor in the third overtime period in the Conference Tournament. Unforgettable will be the picture of Giermak, the center of a team going down to defeat, receiving the greatest ovation ever accorded a basketball player in The Duke Gymnasium.

And the night in Blow Gym last season will be long remembered by W&M students, when Chester was presented with a trophy as the "outstanding William and Mary basketball player." The way the honored student was overtaken by the proceedings, and when finally able to accept the trophy, he said, "My greatest honor comes every time I step out on the floor before you wonderful people. I can't thank you enough for this honor."

Recounted often will be the words of Seton Hall's renowned Honey Russell, "This Giermak is better than Tony Lavelli," and they will cherish Richmond's Coach Mac Pitt's remark, "Chester, you're the finest, cleanest basketball player in Virginia."

This is what true greatness is made of. These are the qualities beyond the records, that exemplify Chester Giermak as a great athlete, a sportsman, and as a gentleman. It is these characteristics that will long be remembered and that recommend him for William and Mary's all-time Hall of Fame.

Tribe Hoopmen Meet Virginia in Finale Tonight

Injuries Hamper Spring Grid Drills

After four grueling weeks of spring football drills, R. N. McCray last Saturday gave his charges a holiday—no scrimmage.

All this past week and yesterday the Tribe have spent on basic fundamentals, and with special work on the new "Y" and double wing formations along with the old single wing.

Probably the busiest man in connection with the practice sessions last week was not McCray or any of his staff, but Dr. Keppel. The Indians now on the doctors' calling list are: tackle Joe Megale, twisted knee; tackle Ted Filer, separated shoulder; end Jim Smith, calcium deposits; end Phil Fuller, sprained ankle; guard Tommy Burke, dislocated shoulder; end Hal Bates, injured leg; back Paul Yewcic, bone chip in shoulder and back; Roy Meredith, head injuries.

Cindermen To Meet

Coach Lou Hoitsma, who heads the 1950 varsity track team, has announced that track practice officially began as of yesterday. The Tribe mentor has called a meeting for all track candidates to be held in the stadium on Wednesday, March 7, at 4 p. m. All potential trackmen are urged to attend.

Virginia's Leading Scorers, Giermak, Noertker To Vie

William and Mary and the University of Virginia clash tonight in the first athletic meeting of the two schools since the peace pipe was dragged out and pulled on a couple of weeks ago.

The basketball forces of the cross-state foes wind up the hardwood season and open up the revived rivalry all in one fell swoop tonight in Norfolk's City Auditorium.

The feature contest gets underway at 8:45, following a 7:30 preliminary between the W&M Papposes and a colorful aggregation of Norfolk City League All-Stars.

The varsity game, in addition to writing fins to the '50 season, also sees the end of two potent net-swishing careers, although one is careful how one mentions the name of Joe Noertker in the same breath with that of Chester Giermak.

Battle of Centers

But the game, nevertheless, is being billed as a battle of the two best centers in Virginia, and rightly so, if the total points collected is any criteria.

Giermak needs 22 points in tonight's fray to register an even 600 for the season, a stretch of 29 games. Noertker, on the other hand, has collected 484 points in 24 outings.

Giermak, with an average, excluding tournament games, of 21.4 per contest, stands sixth in the nation. Noertker's 20.2 is good for tenth.

The spotlight on the Giermak-Noertker scuffle doesn't completely darken the fact that a couple of other performers will do their last performing for college colors.

Bunting Bows Out

Jere Bunting, an all-time favorite among Indian faithful, bows out as does Lewis Morris of Virginia.

Victor Mohl teams with Morris at forward for the Cavaliers and Frankie Allen and Bill Berner pair at the guard posts. The Indians will open with their customary lineup of Bob Benjamin, Fuzz McMillan, Betsy Lewis, Bunting and Giermak.

The William and Mary record shapes up as quite a bit better than that of the Cavaliers. The Braves have won 20 while Virginia has split even in two dozen encounters.

Against Southern Conference foes, independent Virginia copped five and fell before nine opponents.

With a traditional rivalry in the budding, however, the record books in all probability may just as well be cast gently aside, and the game viewed from strictly a W&M vs Virginia outlook.

In the first 19 games of the current season, Co-captain Chester Giermak had but 20 personal fouls charged against him.

Pi KA Edges Theta Delt; SAE Wins Fifth Straight

Due to concentrated high school action in Blow Gymnasium last week only five games were played in the Fraternity League. When the results of these were tabulated only two teams remained undefeated and in a two way tie, atop the league—Pi KA and SAE.

In last week's big game the Pi KA's held off a second half rally to throw Theta Delt out of the unbeaten ranks by a score of 34-32.

Ahead by nine points at half-time the Pi KA's were overtaken midway through the second half as each team had 28 points and then baskets by Ned Burke and Bones Garrison, the last of which came in the last minute of play put them back in a lead which was never again relinquished. Garrison scored 13 points and Burke 12 for the victors while Mark McCormack lead the Theta Delt with 12.

Rhomen Down Phi Tau

Sigma Rho which is now in a triple tie for third place with Theta Delt and Pi Lamb kept in a good position by downing Phi Tau 37-23 last Monday. Randy Mallory showing, for the first time this year, the form that made him one of the most dreaded players in the league last year lead the way for the Rhomen by pouring in 18 counters.

Two games on Thursday found SAE winning their fifth straight game and knocking Pi Lamb out of the ranks of the unbeaten to the tune of a 47-31 score and a rebounding Theta Delt crew mangling Phi Alpha 75-23.

In running their winning streak up to five the SAE's were lead by Randy Davis and Joe Giordano who scored 16 and 12 respectively while little Jeep Friedman paced the Pi Lambs with 11 points.

Theta Delt Swamps Phi Alpha

The 75 points run up by Theta Delt in their game with Phi Alpha was the highest total scored by any one team this season. McCormack again was the high man for the game with 21 points and was closely followed by Tip Hill, Tommy Boys, and Bob Schauf who scored 18, 17, and 14 points respectively.

Undefeated Guts, Jersey Bouncers Lead Mural Loop

The Rubber Guts and Jersey Bouncers remained the only two undefeated independent teams and as a result are at present in a deadlock for first place.

The Guts got by two rough games this week and are at present in what many consider a very commanding position. They slapped down the Blue Bullets 45-33 and were given an unsuspected surprise by the Lion Cubs before defeating them 39-36.

The Jersey Bouncers also added two victories during the week, one by forfeit from the Newman Club Cardinals who have dropped out of the league.

In the week's other games the Lamby Pies squeased past the Minerva Lions 19-13, the Wesleyites edged the Rebels 34-29, and the Monarchs dropped their fourth straight, this time losing to the Lion Cubs by a 40-25 score.

The league's two undefeated teams, the Rubber Guts and the Jersey Bouncers will meet next Tuesday, March 14 in the Small Gym at 3:15 p. m.

This week will probably be a very important one in deciding the Fraternity champions for 1950. Such feature games are on schedule as SAE vs. Pi KA, SAE vs. Theta Delt, and Sigma Rho vs. Theta Delt.

In the week's only other game Pi KA won their fourth straight game over Phi Tau 37-27. Vic Janaga was the Pi KA pacesetter with 15 points, while Wild Bill Garrison tallied 14.

W&M's Dolan Aids Whaley's Cagemen To Group Crown

"Shoot!" "Follow-up!" "Watch that fast break!" The shrill voice giving these bits of advice to the Matthew Whaley Governors' basketball team belongs to Don Dolan, William and Mary senior who is assistant coach of the Governors.

Dolan has helped Coach Johnny Korczowski mould a polished, precision-like squad that last week copped the Eastern District Group II championship. The Governors journey to Blacksburg tomorrow to play in the Group II tournament, tackling Staunton in the first round.

Old Hand at Coaching

This is not the 27-year-old history major's first experience in coaching, however. Dolan handled the Pearl Harbor Naval Air Station team in 1942-43, leading them to the co-championship of the Pacific Fleet, with a 12-1 record.

He also is active in W&M intramurals, playing and managing the Rubber Guts for the past two years. Last year they won the crown in their league, and are rated as favorites to repeat this time. He also coached the Campus Grillers, who went to the finals in the Richmond YMCA tournament last year before bowing to a group of University of Richmond basketball players headed by Bootsie Dolsey, star Spider guard. He plans to enter the tourney again this year.

Another Chicagoan

Dolan is from Chicago, Ill., has a wife named Bertie and a son, Steve, who will be a year old tomorrow. While in high school in Chicago, Dolan played ball with Johnny Jorgenson, well-known Tribe hoopster of several years ago, and has played JV ball for the Indians. Upon his graduation in August, Dolan hopes to teach and coach basketball. With all his experience, he has a good start in the right direction.

Girls Tie Ursinus At 27-All; Fisher Tallies 20 Points

Last Saturday the women's varsity basketball team, playing in Jefferson Gym, tied Ursinus in the final home game of the season. The score at the end of play was knotted at 27-27.

Credit for undoubtedly the most exciting game of the season should be given to the W&M forwards, Bebe Fisher, Abner Hoffman and Juanita Pomeroy, for their fine defensive as well as offensive work. The trio of guards, led by Dottie Lenham, Fran House and Betty Riggins, kept the fast moving, dead-eyed Ursinus shooters in check with some of the best defensive play of the season. The Squaw's fast, accurate passing coupled with opportune interceptions allowed the sextet to gain the tie.

The first period was rather slow, but action picked up rapidly in the second quarter as Bebe Fisher's fine rebound work and spectacular shooting nearly tied the score. In the second period, Fisher scored 11 points, and the score at halftime was 16-15 with Ursinus holding the slim margin.

In the second half, the play was lightning-fast with the lead changing hands often. Seven fouls called against Ursinus in the half greatly aided the Squaws. The lost of the visitor's center guard, Mary Evans, by the foul route also helped the Squaws.

In the final seconds of play with Ursinus holding a two point lead, the fabulous Fisher sank a

Walsh Wins Pin Title

The women's intramural bowling tournament ended last week, and B. J. Walsh captured the first place honors by scoring 314 points for her total in the three game set. Betsy Graves finished second with a 298 total. Last year's winner, Peggy Harmon, came in a close third with 290 points, and Sue Brooks followed in fourth place with a total score of 275.

Fisher finished the Squaw's last home game by scoring 20 of the team's 27 points. Behind the high scoring Idwan, came Liz Sacalis with 5 tallies and Bebe Hammond who connected for two points.

The Squaws now possess a two-won, two-lost and one-tie record for the season. They will try to make it a winning season when they travel to Pennsylvania this weekend to take on the Beaver College sextet.

Coeds Pass Examinations for Officiating

It was announced last week by the women's physical education department that 10 girls have successfully passed examinations for officiating in intramural, local and national swimming and basketball competition.

Peggy Harmon passed the theory and practice tests with an 86 average which qualifies her for officiating in basketball anywhere in the United States. Passing the requirements for local ratings were B. J. Reavis, Nancy Alexander and Ruth Ann Johnson. Mary Lou Curry, Jeanne Carmody, Barbara Bennett, Sally Eger and Carolyn Pulley all passed the intramural requirement.

The swimming tests were passed by Ellen Ringer, Jeanne Carmody and Pat Roland.

Former Stars, Korczowski, Robison, Head South for Spring Baseball Drills

Harry Robison

Shortstop Tommy Korczowski and outfielder Harry Robison, two of W&M's top baseball stars, will both report for spring training this month. Korczowski will report to Jersey City Giants training camp at Sanford, Fla., this Monday, and Robison to Ocala, Florida, March 30.

All-round athlete Tommy Korczowski was somewhat of a sensation during his four years at the Reservation. This February graduate's biggest fame came in baseball, as he was named All-State for four years and All-Southern his last year.

The "Kid" from Hopelawn, N. J., even had a big writeup in the Chicago Tribune about his baseball prowess. Last year Korczowski captained the Tribe baseball team to a 16-8 record. He hit .348 and led the team in home runs, hits, and runs batted in. During the summer he batted .280 for Trenton in the Inter-State league in Class B and sparked the team to a victory in the playoffs with a batting average of over .600.

This 165 pounder played tailback on McCray's football team and was named an All-Stater for two years. His last year he led the team in passing, punting, and punt returns.

Robison, another February graduate, didn't break into the Tribe line-up until mid-season last year, but finished fast to lead the team with a hefty .416 batting average. His hit against Richmond broke up Dan Reymers' bid for no hit fame.

Since his graduation, this Petersburg flash has been keeping in shape for the forthcoming season by working out in the YMCA playing handball and basketball. He leaves for the Red Sox training site at Ocala, Fla., March 30. There he will bid for a position on one of the Sox's 10 teams ranging from class A to Class D.

Sinclair Announces

Dr. Caroline Sinclair, swimming club sponsor, announced that the club tryouts will be held this Thursday at 7 p. m. in Blow pool. Because of the large number of girls swimming in the fall, membership had to be limited, but tryouts will certainly be made.

Dr. Sinclair also stated that fencing club tryouts will be held the same day in Jefferson Gym at 3, 4, and 5 p. m. She emphasized that some girls who just began fencing in February are ready to make the club team. W&M's open fencing tournament will take place March 27.

Religious News

Last Sunday a movie was shown at the meeting of the Westminster Fellowship. The picture was entitled Salt of the Earth, and dealt with the idea of personal evangelism.

The third in the series of talks by members of the college fine arts department sponsored by the Fellowship will take place Sunday evening when Thomas Thorne will speak on painting in connection with religion.

Sunday the members of the Baptist Student Union will be the guests of the Canterbury Club at the Bruton Parish House, at another of the exchange suppers sponsored by the Student Religious Union of the college.

March 5, the Baptists were the guests of the Negro First Baptist Church, in Williamsburg. At the Negro church, the students gave a regular Sunday evening service, consisting of hymns, a scripture reading and a short message. Nick Reams, '50, and Merry Lewis Allen, '50, delivered the message and scripture reading, and music was provided by Anne Reese, '51.

Tomorrow Ray Harcum, a recent graduate of the college and present director of the Wesley Foundation, will be the guest of the Women's Society of Christian Service at West Point's Methodist Church. While there Harcum will speak to the Society on the work done by the Wesley Foundation among the students at the College of William and Mary.

Every Sunday morning at 10:00 from now until the close of school in June, Harcum will teach a Sunday School class for students of the College, at the Methodist Church. The class will discuss current day problems in their relationship to religion, as well as discussing the teachings of the Bible. This class is designed principally for people of college age, and many things of importance to college students concerning the place of religion in their lives will be discussed.

On March 12, the Foundation hopes to have as the speaker at their regular Sunday night supper and meeting, Mr. Gerry Speigler, the state Director of the Methodist Student Movement in Virginia.

Club Asks Payment Of Backdrop Dues

Ralph Chinn, treasurer of the Backdrop Club, has requested that dues from old and new members be paid to him or to Walt Milkey before March 12.

University of Oslo To Offer Studies In Summer School

The annual summer school for American students at the University of Oslo, Norway, has been announced by university authorities. The 1950 session will be held from June 26 to August 5. Applications for entrance can be secured from the Oslo Summer School Admissions Office, St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota.

Applications must be received at the admissions office not later than April 1.

Lectures in English

The University of Oslo will provide lectures conducted in English. The main emphasis will be on courses pertaining to Norwegian culture, geography, history, language, music and art. The General Survey of Norwegian Culture is required of all students. The faculty for the session contains the names of many prominent men recognized throughout the entire world.

Six semester credits may be earned during the six-week's course. The University of Oslo will award a certificate to everyone who satisfactorily completes the summer school course.

Scholarships Available

A number of scholarships are available to American and Canadian students. The summer school will grant 27 scholarships for the 1950 session. These scholarships, in the amount of $110 each, cover the student's tuition, fees and excursion.

The summer school session has been approved by the United States Veterans' Administration. They will pay the tuition fee and probably the student fee. The tuition for the six weeks term is $80; the student fee including health insurance is $10; the excursion fee, $20.

Soroptimists Offer Award to Graduates

John C. Bright, director of the placement bureau, has announced a fellowship of $750 for a woman student doing graduate or professional work in preparation for public services.

The fellowship is sponsored by the South Atlantic Region of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs. The clubs are an organization of executive and professional business women.

The requirements for the fellowship, which will provide training with the intention of developing leadership for service in the student field, are a baccalaureate degree and plans to work for a graduate degree. Previous academic record and personal qualifications are to be taken into account.

It is asked that all applications be in before April 1, 1950. They may be secured by writing the registrar, George Washington University, Washington 6, D. C., or from John C. Bright in the placement bureau office.

Flat Hat Interviews 'Typical' College Boys in 240 Old Dominion: Vitamin Cox, Southern Gentleman, and Martin Irons, Radio Ham

By Jim Baker

In order to prove that the zany days when college boys swallowed gold fish and wore 'coon skin coats were a thing of the past, the editor of the Flat Hat sent a reporter last week to interview a couple of typical, modern college boys.

Because Old Dominion was closest to the Flat Hat office and because the number 240 had won for him $2.18 at the dog races last summer, the reporter played a hunch and decided to visit Room 240, Old Dominion Hall.

He found there two typical American college boys — Vitamin Cox and Martin Irons. As all modern people, these two young men have hobbies. Cox is interested in all aspects of the fast-dying streetcar industry, as well as what he describes as "anything Suthun", and Irons is a radio "ham".

The room is furnished with a three-way decor of streetcar parts, Southern literature, pictures, etc. and radio equipment all vying for space.

Trolley Bell

Every new visitor to the room is immediately aware of the streetcar portion of the theme by the loud clanging of a foot-operated trolley bell, sturdily mounted atop the trash can, "Dit-dar-dit-dar" echoes throughout the room from one or more of the radio sets.

General Robert E. Lee benevolently looks down from all four walls, and through the trolley car strap-hangers hanging from the ceiling, one can see a set of crossed confederate flags, beautifully mounted in a magnolia wood frame.

Proving that the modern college man is ingenious and is not akin to the hip-flask-set of several decades ago, the room is completely equipped with streetcar lights—one over the mirror, one in the closet and others in various darkened nooks of the room.

Irons is head man of ham radio station W-4-RCM. "The RCM," he says, "stands for Radio Crazy Monologist."

His room-mate bitterly opposes this, claiming the rightful meaning of RCM is Retired Car Motor-man.

Southern Library

Cox, whose basic aim is to Southernize the entire dormitory, claims to have the most exclusive library on the South in Virginia. His book shelf boasts such well known editions as A Treasury of Southern Folklore, Half Hours in Southern History, Rebel Raider and Dixie After the War.

His favorite weapon used against his northern room-mate Irons, is a 1910 recording of Dixie. Irons has managed a counter-attack, however, with a borrowed 1912 disc of Marching Through Georgia.

Showing the modern student's disdain for folly, Cox has an intellectual passion for music. His favorite recording is a radio station sound effects record labeled, "Background Bagpipe Music."

Like most average students, Cox and Irons look forward eagerly to spring vacation. In fact, they're so interested in this joyous occasion they've devised a device which if kept up to date, denotes the exact number of hours until spring recess. It consists of two cardboard discs with small openings in them. By turning one or the other disc each hour, the correct total of hours-to-go is revealed.

When questioned on politics, Cox revealed he was strongly anti-Truman. "Look," he flouted, and gestured towards numerous anti-Truman political cartoons from the Chicago Tribune plastered neatly between the pictures of Lee.

Calender

To keep apace with the modern world of haste and fast living, a man needs a calender. Our hosts had one. A large, coal company calender with the birth dates of all Southern heroes clearly marked, adorns the wall over Cox's bookcase. On closer examination it was noted that all birthdays of damyankees had been neatly cut out.

On closer inspection of the young men's books, another undeniable proof of the modern student's aversion to folly was found. The wide scope and intellectual nature of the volumes contained within proved this point beyond all doubt. A sampling of the titles includes: An Encyclopedia of Geography—1841, Negroes and Negro Slavery—The First Inferior Race, assorted almanacs dating back to 1821, a 1929 copy of the William and Mary college catalogue and a Text on Catholic Theology, (printed in Italy in 1676).

As modern students, living in a sound and unfrivolous manner, these boys are truly scholars. Cox, for instance, has compiled a college catalogue for the Confederate States Institute of Higher Learning and Southernology, a proposed university which he hopes someday to found.

Board of Visitors

The university will be located in South Magnolia, Mississippi and has the following distinguished names on its proposed board of visitors: Dr. Samuel Green, Herman Talmadge, J. Strom Thurman, Earl K. Long, William Tuck and other less distinguished gentlemen.

Glancing over the curriculum as outlined in the catalogue, one finds such courses offered at the Confederate States Institute as Biology 100, Comparative Anatomy of Republicans; Economics 100, A History of the Southern People; Economics 200, Cotton; Economics 300, Cotton; Economics 400, More Cotton and Economics 404, Confederate Money and Banking.

In the fine arts department there are such courses as: Sculpture 100, Cross Making; Music 100, Choral Singing, which includes 58 verses and 14 arrangements of Dixie; Music, 200, Hillbilly Music; and Theatre 200, Advanced Filler-busting.

A few other courses offered in Cox's catalogue are: Chemistry 100, Mint Julip Making; Government 205, State Machine Politics, taught in off election years by Prof. Byrd and History 301, History of the Ku Klux Klan.

Serious Nature

After examination of this bulletin, no doubt can be left as to the high degree of seriousness that enveloped this young man-of-tomorrow.

Upon leaving the room, his interview over, the reporter caught a glimpse of a small sign near the top of the room:

"Livin' can't be simple, anymore, They's too many gadgets."

Cromer Will Speak In Chapel Services

Dr. Horace Cromer, pastor of a Washington, D. C., Methodist Church, will be the speaker at Wednesday evening's Chapel service. Dr. Cromer was a former pastor of the Williamsburg Methodist Church. It was under his pastorate that the church was built at the corner of Duke of Gloucester and Boundary Streets.

The speaker last week was Lloyd H. Williams, vice-mayor of Williamsburg. Speaking on Prayer, Williams said that according to popular conception, prayer is a means of getting something. This type of prayer, however, soon disintegrates. He stated that one should pray for a great purpose; that is, to know God.

team surrendered several feet of ground in this initial pull as did a 1936 Ford sedan to which the freshmen had tied one end of the rope.

In retaliation, the freshmen battled earnestly to tug the juniors from their position across the line. Soon a roar of approval signaled victor for the 53's.

Realizing near defeat, many juniors standing among the crowd of spectators went into the battle in their Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes only to meet the same watery fate.

Pie Face

The recipient of two lemon custard pies in the face and chest, Rehlaender offered a picturesque attraction.

Commenting as to reasons for his class's defeat, the junior president remarked "I don't contest their winning but I wonder what the outcome would have been if the rope had not been carelessly tangled around the bumper of that Ford."

Schauf merely gestured, "The aged juniors, tired by the strenuous contest, are blaming their loss on the imaginary Ford car, which to my mind was only an illusion."

Campus yokels attending the Barefoot Ball Saturday night were moved (in fact many made their way to the door) as they heard Rehlaender's ripping rendition of I Love You Truly, which he sang as the penalty for the defeat of the junior class.

Elections

Margaret "Peggy" Hughes, Claudia Richmond and Elizabeth Beard.

Voting will be carried on from 3:30-5:30 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall for Sorority Court and the small dormitories, while Day students and Ludwell will vote in Jefferson Hall.

Candidates nominated from the floor for president are Sarah Enos, Joan Kohler and Betty Hicks; for vice-president, Ann Carolyn "Andy" Anderson and Peggy Blair; for treasurer, Sally Eger and Bebe Hammond.

Junior representative candidates from the floor are Audrey Doll, Ella Mae Harrison, Mary Alice Harvey, Wendy Phillips, Jean Vester and Carol Walker.

National Convention of College Deans Will Assemble at W&M on March 15-18

The College of William and Mary will act as host to more than 200 college and university officials this month when the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men convenes here for its 32nd anniversary conference. The meeting will begin Wednesday, March 15 and continue to March 18, John E. Hocutt, dean of men, announced this week.

This is the first time that William and Mary has been chosen for the conference site, and Dean Hocutt stated that he was extremely gratified by the action of the Association. Conferences are usually held in large cities, he pointed out.

The opening session of the conference will begin at 1:30 p. m. on Wednesday with Dean L. K. Neidlinger of Dartmouth College, president of the Association, presiding.

Welcoming Address

The welcoming address will be given by J. Wilfred Lambert, dean of students at William and Mary. At 2:30 p. m. a major address will be delivered by Chester I. Barnard, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and also president of the New Jersey Telephone Company, who will speak on The Qualities of an Administrator.

At 10:30 p. m. the William and Mary Choir, directed by W. Warren Sprouse, will present selections at the Williamsburg Lodge game room.

Discuss Many Topics

The officials will discuss many subjects which are of special importance to a college dean, among which will be topics concerning student government, administration of student personnel programs, counseling and discipline. These discussions will take place in groups formed according to the size of the institution.

The meeting will close with a banquet on Friday, March 17, at which John E. Pomfret, president of the College of William and Mary, will be speaker.

L. K. Neidlinger of Dartmouth College is president of the Association and Dean Fred H. Turner of the University of Illinois is secretary-treasurer.

J. J. Somerville of Ohio Wesleyan University and Dean Newhouse of the Case Institute of Technology are vice-presidents.

Executive Committee

The executive committee of the Association is composed of the officers plus the following educators: J. H. Newman of the University of Alabama, M. E. Jarchow of Carleton College, F. C. Baldwin of Cornell University, W. B. Rea of the University of Michigan, Juan Reid of Colorado College and F. H. Weaver of the University of North Carolina.

The local committee is composed of John E. Hocutt and J. Wilfred Lambert of William and Mary and Robert E. Bates of Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Members of the conference and their wives will stay at the Williamsburg Lodge during their visit to Williamsburg.

Program for Wives

A program for the wives has been arranged, including tours of Colonial Williamsburg, an illustrated lecture entitled Life in the Eighteenth Century by James L. Cogar, former curator of Colonial Williamsburg, and an illustrated lecture on Flower Arrangements of Colonial Williamsburg by Mrs. John R. Fisher, creator of flower arrangements for the city.

Mrs. J. Wilfred Lambert, Mrs. John E. Hocutt and Mrs. Robert W. Bates compose the local committee.

Workmen

Duke also said the plans for remodeling the building have been made for some time. When they will be carried out, he could not say, however.

Dorm

of the same type in the older dormitories. Added conveniences, in addition to the above, will be easy chairs and built-in bookshelves in each room.

The intra-mural football field between Old Dominion Hall and the stadium is to be the site of the new dormitory which has not yet been given a name by its planners. This entire area from Cary Field to Blow Gym will be landscaped to provide a setting for the additional building.

A mall in front of Old Dominion Hall arranged with gardens, shrubs and trees will complete the Richmond Road side of the campus. The building program will also include the construction of a more usable road to serve both the gym, Old Dominion Hall and the new dormitory.
